

SUCK THE MILLIONS - BULLSHIT REIGNS SUPREME IN EAST ANGLIA, UK

"Millions of pounds in funding is being dished out by UEA's Carbon Connections programme for universities to set up ground-breaking green projects in partnership with businesses and other organisations. Partnerships led by around a third of the UK's universities have applied for the funding, which is aimed at helping the UK meet its carbon reduction targets. Carbon Connections has already invested in 11 projects, most of which have now already started and the findings of how successful they are will be scrutinised during a 12-month observation period. The programme has proved so popular that in the final round of applications, the remaining £2m could have been spent five times over."

"Climate change affects us all and we need to act now to drastically reduce our carbon output. It is increasingly apparent that more of us are committed to doing so but that there isn't always the means to carry out our commitment. If you have an innovative idea for a new technology or behavioural change but you need a little assistance to make it a reality then you've come to the right place. The Carbon Connections Development Fund managed by the University of East Anglia and funded by the Higher Education Funding Council for England has been set up to support organisations with innovative projects for carbon reduction."

START SUCKING NOW, BEFORE THE MILLIONS DRY UP.

COME ON ALL YOU PHONEY SCIENTISTS, WE WANT SOME "UNEQUIVOCAL PROOF" THAT BULLSHIT Baffles BRAINS.

Stop calling yourselves "scientists", you are a disgrace to the profession. Better to call yourselves "climate suckers", at least that describes your true interest in furthering your "cause", you educated fools.

Attached is my press release with links to articles by proper scientists as well as observational data (if you know what that stands for). If you have any free braincells left over after controlling your outstretched hands, read up on their results before committing yourselves to producing yet more garbage.

Yours sincerely,
