

PUBLICITY BANNERS NOW AVAILABLE FOR WORLD-WIDE DEPLOYMENT

The "I Love My Carbon Dioxide" mission from Ipswich, UK has taken delivery of two banners.

One is in Ipswich, UK, the other is currently in Washington DC – email me if you want to use them.

Ipswich banner – 3m10 x 1m

US banner – 2m35 x 0.7m

To date, there has not been sufficient publicity for the other side of the debate on global warming, whilst the climate is fast turning into a much more devastating phase: global cooling -

The recent warming and upcoming cooling are part of perfectly natural and well-understood cycles.

The big problem is that natural cycles don't generate green taxing or funding opportunities.

What needs reducing is air and ground pollution at home and in the developing world plus the ludicrous drive to plant crops for bio-fuel, slashing and burning perfectly good forests to chase an impossible dream.

Carbon dioxide is not pollution – period!

We need MORE coal-fired power stations, not less. With a millennium of coal reserves around the world we have plenty time to find alternatives and nuclear leaves a nasty legacy for our children for the next 2 million years or so!
